I am interviewing for a senior-level position at a top consulting firm in the Middle East. It's been years since I had last interviewed, and I needed coaching on all aspects of my case interview skills.

Raj took the time to get to know me and my case interview goals and was able to find and interview me with cases relevant to my level and my practice area of interest. His feedback is detailed, constructive, and practical. Also, he provided me with useful frameworks and inside knowledge of the interview process.

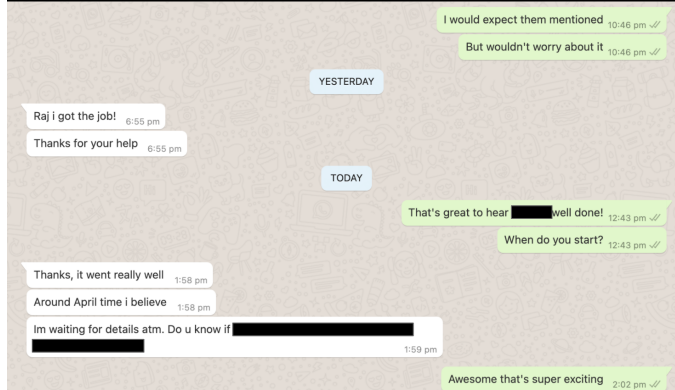

I highly recommend Raj! He's an excellent interviewer and a great coach!

Raj worked with me for two coaching appointments to help me drill into areas of improvement and refinement before an interview with Strategy& after bombing an MBB interview the week before. I was allowing nerves to get in the way and Raj was really supportive, even with chat messages prior and after our appointments. I even scored an offer with Strategy& Deals and Raj agreed to chat with me as I was considering it! I would highly recommend getting him in your corner and booking a session. He did a great job with categorizing feedback and helping me identify things to improve in a matter of days/hours before my interview.

My sessions with Raj were very useful, he helped me secure a full-time offer at Bain. Raj especially helped with Market Sizing, for every subsequent interview, interviewers were impressed by my Market Sizing approach. I'd highly recommend Raj as an Interviewer.

I completed the 1st session with Raj to evaluate my case study ability that I had been practicing.

He has a passion to coach, therefore, he gave me clear, fair, and constructive feedback on what I should improve on. Overall, he is a great coach for candidates who want to increase their case study ability to the next level.

I had some upcoming interviews in consulting firms in London for entry roles, and I received several offers and pending the last one now from tier 1/2 firms.

I was looking for a coach with inside knowledge of interview process and help me best prepare. Raj was super helpful, not only in cases, but also in how I link my personal story to my motivation, and not just giving generic answers to why consulting why our firm. We came up with personalised answers and all the interview feedback I received commented I had great reason for getting into consulting and that I had done good research about the firm. It helped a lot in helping me getting multiple offers and Raj's inside knowledge of the interview process from being an interviewer himself definitely will help you! I recommend him!

Raj is extremely specific with his advise which was super helpful to me to understand areas I could work on. I worked with Raj on two occasions to practise case and fit interviews both times he went above and beyond to make sure i was able to cover everything I needed to in order to feel more prepared. I highly recommend Raj for both kind of interviews. I have also seen significant improvement after being coached by him.

I worked with Raj 3-4 times to prep for my behavioural interviews and case interviews. I recently landed a job as a Consultant at Deloitte. I felt my confidence increased tremendously after working with Raj. We solved problems together, practised my delivery and polished my answers. Raj is highly qualified and his advises have been extremely helpful in my interviews. Raj worked with me patiently and focused on areas that I needed more attention in.
